VERDUN STORM CENTER

FRENCH HOLD BATTLE LINE FOR SEVENTY- SEVEN DAYS.

LONDON, May 8.—On the occasion of the Easter festival, Emperor William indicated a letter to Pope Benedict expressing hope that the pontiff, with the king of Spain would be able to "construct a scheme with the object of bringing together under the auspicious emblem of the dove and olive branch, a conference of belligerents for consideration of an immediate armistice, in fervent hope of securing an early peace without detriment to the legitimate aspirations of nationalities", according to the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company at Rotterdam.

Considerable importance is attached to the arrival in Rome of envoys from the kings of Bavaria and Saxony, who have been closeted with the Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, the correspondent states. The information was obtained from circulars issued by the German Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The Germans are continuing the furthest offensive at Verdun, which gained them important ground both east and west of the Meuse yesterday. They made no further advances during the attacks of last night, however, Paris declares, and in fact lost part of the territory won at the outset of their renewed drive in force on the defenses of the fortress.

The principal German gain Sunday was northeast of Verdun, where a footing was gained in the French first line on a front of 500 metres between Haudumont wood and Fort Douaumont. During Sunday night French attacks, drove the crown prince's forces from one of the occupied trenches south of Haudumont. Near Hill 304 northwest of the fortress, the Germans were ousted from a communication trench occupied during yesterday's drive. There is a lull in the fighting on the Austro-Italian front, with no advances by either of the opposing armies reported. London reports the sinking by a submarine on May 8 of the French bark Marie Molinos, of 1,946 tons. There were no casualties among the crew.

Washington advises state that a new note to Germany has been virtually completed and will probably go forward today.

VERDUN HOLDS 77 DAYS.

Dead Man Hill Now Center of the German Attack.

PARIS, May 8.—After seventy-seven days of battle the Germans are making a new attack before Verdun with another formidable army. Fighting almost equal in violence to that of the beginning of March is in progress on both banks of the Meuse.

The principal effort of the Germans is being directed against Dead Man Hill. Following the Napoleonic policy of attempting to turn what cannot be carried by frontal attack the Germans with a whole army corps made the assault by way of the ravine between Hill 304 and Dead Man Hill, seeking to crush in the French line along a front of one and one-half miles. The ground there is favorable for attack and the French commander, aware of the weakness of the position placed one of his best-trained army corps at that place. This corps disposed of any important attack without ceding any important ground but the battle is still raging and according to the latest advice the result will not be known until some time today.

East of the Meuse the Germans delivered four attacks on a front of two thousand yards, each advance being made by a different Prussian regiment. The fighting there is as fierce as on the other side of the river and as inconclusive.

General Nivelle whose promotion to the command at Verdun put him in charge at such critical time is a man of sixty.

Fighting of great violence continued last night on the Verdun front. Furious German attacks near Hill 304 were broken by the French, the war office announced today.

The losses of the Germans are described as extremely heavy.

The French attacked east of Hill 304 and drove the Germans from a communication trench which they penetrated yesterday.

AMISH SECT COMES INTO COURT AT LAST

CHARDON, O., May 8.—For the first time in the history of the Amish sect, church leaders here, including Bishop Daniel Byler, of the colony, are making preparations today to contest a court suit brought by Jacob Schumacher, an Amishman, on Saturday. Schumacher claims he has been ostracized by the colony, his home virtually wrecked and his wife ranged against him, as the result of his having incurred the enmity of Bishop Byler, Deacon William A. Byler and Andrew J. Byler, pastor of the Middlefield church, members of the same family. Schumacher asks the court to grant an order restraining the Bylers from persecuting him, claiming that they exercise an autocratic rule over the Amish colony and have used their power in the church to force the other members to take part in the boycott against him. Schumacher says he had been a member of the Amish church for years until July 2, 1915, when he was expelled by the defendants. He charges they have illegally combined to injure him.

ONE MONTH LEFT IN WHICH TO FIND CANDIDATES' LISTS

Aspirants for Office Have Thirty Days to File
Their Petitions.

Two of County's Congressional Candidates of 1916 in Fight.

By David W. Bowman.

One month from today the voters of the state, the Fourth congressional district and the county of Allen will know who are to be their candidates in the August primary. At present the voters know little or nothing about it whatever.

The monotonous scarcity of information in political circles has become more of a joke than would have been anticipated six weeks ago. In the county many prospective candidates are waiting on the congressional situation to solve itself. The congressional situation is being kept in suspense because of the mysterious attitude of J. Henry Cooke, as before explained. In the state the possibility of a Cox-Sandles scrap is still undetermined. Cox has said he is willing to run, and the national administration is quoted as favoring his candidacy. Nevertheless Cox has not yet stated definitely that he will be there, rain or shine. Meanwhile Sandles is keeping his own council, saying nothing political, but he is talking agriculture to dozens of large meetings. His silence is not a cause for a belief that he is inactive.

If Wilson is behind Cox, we are told that Harmon is equally strong in his advocacy of Sandles. Here we have the remarkable situation of the national administration, a very popular one, backing one candidate, with the strongest personal factor in the state, the Cincinnati former governor, backing another. If a fight develops along those lines it will be a good one, for Wilson has the solid support of Ohioans—witness the feeble showing of Frank S. Monnett on an anti-Wilson platform—while Harmon is the only genuinely invincible man in Ohio, and the ability of each to transfer popularity to favored candidates is in reality the big issue of the primary fight.

June 8 is the last date open for the filing of petitions for state and county offices, as well as for congressional honors. A fee of one-half of one per cent of the annual salary must accompany each petition. Five qualified electors of the party must sign each petition, and all must swear that they belong to that party and as members thereof believe the candidate the logical man for the nomination. They bind themselves to support him and to aid his campaign. The candidate, too, must swear that he will accept the nomination and take the office if elected. In addition to all this, the candidate must declare that he is in the fight "on the level," and not to serve some ulterior purpose.

These petitions must be prepared on regular blank forms, obtainable at the office of the board of elections, Sherwood block, Public Square. They must be made out in regulation style, for there is no telling how freakish a ruling from the attorney general's office might throw out a petition because of such slight inaccuracies as the omission

GERMANY INFORMED AMERICA WATCHES SUBMARINE EVENTS

United States Will Not Allow Kaiser to Dictate Policy.

Quiet is Reported at Santo Domingo by U. S. Cruiser Seydlitz.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A note to Germany has practically been completed and probably will go forward to Berlin today. It will be made public soon afterward. It is understood it will be brief informing Germany that as long as the new instructions to submarine commanders are observed diplomatic relations will be continued but that the United States cannot allow Germany to dictate its negotiations with Great Britain.

The president worked on the proposed communication today following his conference with Secretary Lansing last night. It is understood officials are so far agreed on the policy to be pursued that it will not be necessary to wait for the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

While the German note has averted, for the present at least, a break in diplomatic relations it was said today that the president was not satisfied with the apparent conditions attached by Germany. The United States stands by its demand that Germany cease her attacks on vessels in violation of international law regardless of negotiations which may be carried on with Great Britain over the food blockade.

Some of his advisers wanted him to make no reply to the German note and only wait developments but he is understood to have decided to send the new communication.

Rear Admiral Caperton, commanding the cruiser squadron in Dominican waters reported today that quiet had been restored in Santo Domingo City and that General Arias, leader

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 8.—Efforts of the Westinghouse companies to re-open their plants in the Turtle Creek Valley, where a strike for the eight-hour day has been in progress for several weeks, were only partly successful today. Four thousand of the 4,500 employed during the day by the Westinghouse Airbrake Company at Wilmerding entered the shops while two companies of infantry guarded all entrances. No strike was declared against the company but the plant was closed by the management when marching strikers attempted to bring out the force.

The gates of the electric company in East Pittsburgh also were thrown open under military guard, and some of the men went to work, but the number was not large. All employees of this company will be paid today, and as each man is handed his envelope he will be compelled to surrender his check. This, officials say, means that when he appears for work he will be employed as a new applicant, and all bonuses and rewards paid for continuous service will then terminate.

The county authorities arranged to inaugurate a sweeping crusade against agitators. All persons known to have been implicated in any way in the Braddock riot last Tuesday will be arrested, and those who in the future seek to incite riot by inflammatory utterances will be taken into custody.

SECOND VILLISTA RAID, KILLING 4 AMERICANS, CALLS OUT NEW ARMY

Night Attack By Mexican Bandits and Horsethieves

U. S. FORCE IS IN PURSUIT

Secretary Baker Declares Scott-Obregon
Agreement Is Still the Plan of Operation Between Pershing and Carranza

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A new American expedition may already be across the Mexican border in pursuit of the bandits who raided Glenn Springs and Boquillas, Texas, last week. Secretary Baker said today he had received a report from General Funston as to the steps taken in that direction, but declined to reveal its contents. He said General Funston's original orders still stood, however, and they gave him authority to cross whenever the need arose.

It was believed possible some method of direct co-operation for the extermination or capture of the Glenn Springs raiders might result from the conference today between Generals Scott and Obregon at El Paso. General Scott reported to Secretary Baker that after the meeting today he expected the agreement would be completed in the light of these most recent happenings.

The war department has heard informally that General Carranza has approved the Scott-Obregon plan with a minor exception but just what part is not satisfactory has not been stated.

There was no indication at the department that plans were in contemplation to increase the border force because of the Glenn Springs incident.

EL PASO, Texas, May 8.—General Scott indicated today that the next move in the negotiations must come from the Mexicans. Asked if he would take any steps toward arranging the next conference, he said: "Not one step." He added that the request for the meeting will have to be made by General Obregon.

From information received here it is thought the bandits in the "Big Bend" country may have been under the leadership of Rosalio Hernandez, a Villa chief.

Marathon, almost 100 miles north of the international line, will be the base of operations. General Funston announced today. From there a field telegraph line will be run to the advanced base.

Asked today if he intended sending troops into the Big Bend district, additional to those already on their way, General Funston said: "I haven't any to send."

MEXICAN RAIDERS FLEEING.

Strike American Settlement and Then Run For the Hills

ALPINE, Texas, May 8.—Fleeing through the wild mesas of northern Coahuila the seventy or more bandits that raided the American settlement of Glenn Springs and Boquillas, last Friday, killing three cavalymen and a nine year old boy, are believed to be heading into the interior today, many miles from the scene of their depredation.

A posse from Marathon and a detachment of twenty-three troopers of the fourteenth cavalry are said to have followed the train of the Mexicans into Coahuila, while other reports have it that the Americans are awaiting at the Rio Grande for reinforcements.

Two companies of the fourteenth cavalry and a machine gun company are expected here or at Marathon this afternoon when they will head southward to the "Big Bend" country.

It is not known whether the new troops contemplate a long pursuit of the bandits into Mexico or will be placed as an additional guard along the border.

It is about a three days march from either Marathon or Alpine to the Rio Grande and as the bandits already had a three days start, only a relentless pursuit will bring the Americans into contact with their quarry.

Unconfirmed information says that J. Decmer, the storekeeper at Boquillas has been found dead on the Mexican side, with his throat cut. His clerk, named Compton, is known to have been a captive of the bandits. He is thought to have suffered the fate of Decmer.

SUM OF $84,244 PLEGGED FOR NEW Y. M. C. A. EDIFICE

Two Days Left in Which to Raise $40,000 to Complete Work.

Campaign Among Workers in Industrial Plants of Lima Launched.

With a total of $84,244 already realized in the seven-day Y. M. C. A. campaign, and two days left in which to complete the sum of $125,000 by collecting pledges totalling more than $40,000, the long hand on the big clock above the German-American bank is still ahead of the shorter one, indicating that the solicitors are still ahead of the game.

The average for a week campaign, drawn from previous experiences in other cities, is slightly lower for the fifth day than the sum now promised in the local movement.

The donors of sums of $500 or more, announced today at the noon-day luncheon, are:

G. E. Blum $2000
Hoover-Bond Co. 1000
Agerton & Blackburn 500
Ladies of Trinity Church. 500

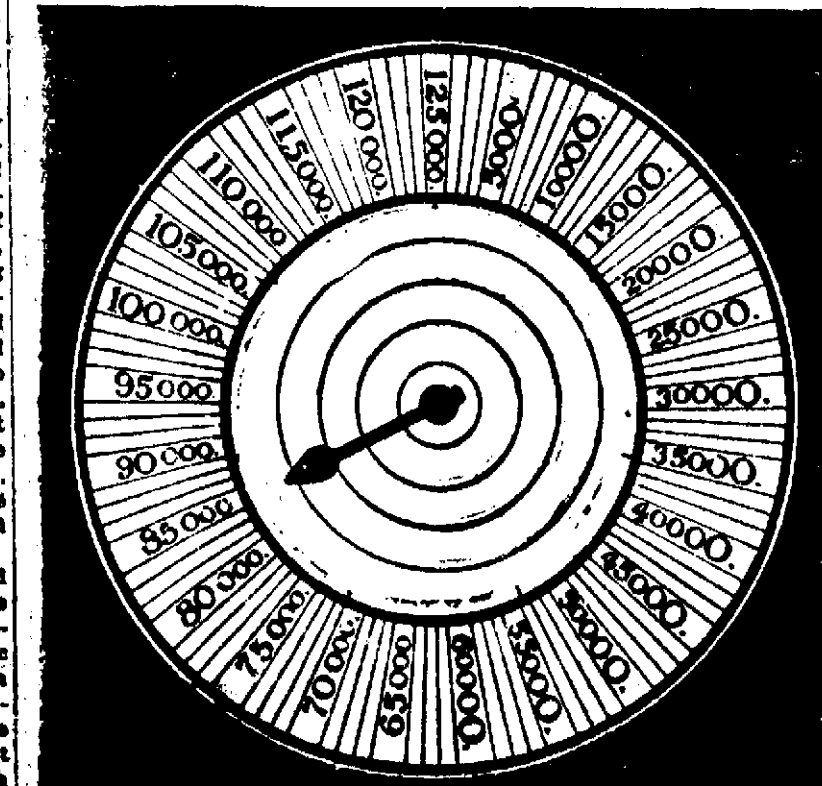

Transfers in the possession of the pennants of the two divisions resulted today as the result of the reports of the captains, printed elsewhere. In division A the banner was handed by Lee Faurot to E. J. Jackson's table, while in division B Francis W. Durbin relinquished the flag to H. H. Miller, who has taken the place of Harry L. DeWitt, as head of team 17.

Among the plans discussed for a whirlwind finish on the last two days of the campaign are systems of securing small subscriptions from workers in the various factories and shops in the city. As the son of the man in moderate circumstances is more apt to be benefited by the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building than the son of the wealthy man, it is expected that an appeal directed toward the workmen will be productive of a substantial amount.

Collective subscriptions, drawn from fraternal orders, lodges, unions, churches, societies and similar organizations, are also to be undertaken.

Ben. F. Thomas was a speaker at the meeting at noon. His remarks dealt with the need of persistent and energetic appeals from the solicitors to the prospective donors. Robert J. Plate, of the general staff, told of the work and sacrifice made 25 years

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN $125,000 BY MAY 10TH 1916

WATCH THE CLOCK

Mrs. Ellis was the only woman in Glenn Springs when the bandits swooped down upon the little settlement near midnight.

Telling of her experience, Mrs. Ellis said:

"A fusillade of shots roused my husband and myself. Peering out of the window, we saw the forms of men moving in the direction of the soldiers' little camp.

"The flashes of their rifles were like lightning streaks against the darkness.

"In the dark we quickly dressed. The bandits were now firing rapidly at the adobe house where the soldiers of Troop A, made their stand.

"We could hear the shouts of the Mexicans and saw a party of them moving toward our bungalow. We slipped out of the back door and, hugging every shadow as we went for fear of being shot, made our way into the hills."

FINAL CONFERENCE TODAY.

Mexicans Convinced That Further Parley Will Be Vain.

EL PASO, Texas, May 8.—Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, appeared confident today that before night General Obregon, Mexican minister of war, would meet him in what is expected will be the final conference on the position of the American soldiers in Mexico and the final attitude of the Mexican army. General Obregon said First Chief Carranza already had approved in general the agreement made by him and General Scott, and he was convinced full authority to close the negotiations would be received in time for signing the protocol today. General Scott and Funston regarded the military operations in the Big Bend region of Texas, caused by the incursion Friday night of a Mexican raiding party, as only indirectly related to the conferences begun for the purpose of securing greater co-operation between the American troops in Mexico and those of the de facto government. It was realized, however, that military developments in the next day or two might cause further delay.

General Obregon has been assured that the American representative has said the last word and, it was reported, told that he could gain nothing more by further parley. It was said at his headquarters early today that there appeared little doubt but that he would be prepared to conclude negotiations perhaps this afternoon.

Overnight reports received by General Funston added little to the information regarding the raid by Mexicans Friday night. Later reports indicated that the size of the attacking party was greater than at first believed, some estimates having it as high as 300. The raiders attacked the guard of nine men of Troop A, of the Fourteenth cavalry at Glenn Springs just before midnight. The total number of killed was placed at six, three soldiers and three civilians, two of whom are small boys. After continuing their raid to Deemers and Bouquillas, they were reported to have recrossed into Mexico, although some of the military reports indicated that a part of the Mexican force was yet on the American side.

Captain Cole of the Fourteenth cavalry had arrived at Glenn Springs this morning with part of one company, and four troops of cavalry sent from Fort Bliss and Fort Clark are expected to detain early today at Marathon from where the march to the border would be begun. It was not expected that this force would reach the border before Wednesday night and perhaps not before Thursday. The actual distance they will have to march is 115 miles. The additional troops sent into the district will be disposed of in such a way as to give toward better protection but it was indicated at General Funston's headquarters that fresh efforts would be made to have the war department add to the strength of the forces in the southern department. It is decided to send into Mexico from that part of the international line, a punitive expedition, a much larger force in necessary than is now available, according to army officers.

Lieutenant Norton of the Fourteenth cavalry sent to headquarters a dispatch that confirmed earlier reports and added information regarding the heroic fight made by Sergeant Smyth, who continued to handle his men in an efficient manner after he had been seriously burned and who rescued his wounded and removed his dead while under a sharp fire.

Just before the fighting ended the relief guard appeared and it was on the motor truck on which they had come that the sergeant was able to send away the dead and wounded. The relief guard had been delayed in reaching Glenn Springs. Had it arrived in time the raiding party would have found eighteen soldiers to meet them instead of the nine who held them off for three hours.

Two of the wounded men, Privates Frank Defree and James Birk, were brought here last night for treatment in the base hospital. Defree was shot through the left hand and Birk through the arm and shoulder. His wounds were caused by buckshot.

CLEVELAND, O., May 8.—The body of William Welshelmer, 60, former city councilman was found on a bench in Lincoln park early this morning. A bullet hole in Welshelmer's head and a revolver with one chamber empty lying at his feet convinced police officials Welshelmer committed suicide.

GRAND JURY FILES REPORT ON CHARGES UNDER THE LAWS

Majority of the Offenders Held by Former Police Administration.

Twenty-three Secret Indictments and 23 Cases Ignored.

After shining the shoes of former Chief of Police John W. Beall, he said to Edward Parrish, "Come along, my boy, go with me." Parrish was indicted by the Allen county grand jury which finished its labors and made its report to common pleas court this morning. He is now in the Allen county jail. He was indicted for cutting with intent to kill his wife.

James S. Boynton was indicted for forgery. He is in jail. He was returned from Chicago by ex-Chief Beall on the charge of forgery, having passed a check on the R. L. Graham company. He was employed at the Market street drug store and passed checks on that firm, Eggert N. Zettis, the florist, and several other business houses.

Roscoe Miller and Fred McMillen forged checks on several Lima saloon-keepers. They were arrested by Chief of Police Beall and afterward bound over to the grand jury to await their action. They were indicted for forgery.

Edgar G. Jackson, indicted for larceny, is accused of robbing his room-mate, Mr. McCormack, on the staff of the Lima Daily News. McCormack shared his room with Jackson and when Jackson left, took with him his suit-case and a bundle of clothes. He was brought back by Chief Beall from Delphos, and is in jail.

Virgil Taylor, indicted for forgery, executed fraudulent checks on the Hotel Norval.

James B. Blockson, indicted for cutting with intent to kill, slashed his wife at their home on South Main street, beyond the bridge, on one Saturday afternoon in a row.

After beating up Roadmaster Metzger of the Erie railroad, who would not allow his partner to sleep in the shanty of that official, James O'Hara was arrested and lodged in the city prison by Chief of Police Beall. He was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of assault with intent to kill.

John Townsend, against whom an indictment was returned by the Allen county grand jury, charging assault with intent to rob, held up and robbed I. W. Green, an employee of the Lima Locomotive corporation, on his way home from work one evening in late winter. Townsend's wife later secured a divorce from him. He had figured prominently in the courts the past few months.

Other indictments returned are for minor offenses. The grand jury investigated 65 cases, examined 264 witnesses, returned 42 true bills, of which 23 were secret indictments and 19 public indictments. They ignored 23 cases and were in session 10 days.

The following public indictments were returned:

ago in securing sufficient assurances to erect the present building. At that time, he said one now prominent business man was earning $8 weekly, but donated $75 to the cause. He himself was a clerk in a candy store, he said at a dollar a day, but spared $5. Others were also listed among the contributors whose means at that time were meagre, he added. His remarks brought a round of applause.

Assignments were made to various solicitors whereby the shops and factories of Lima are divided among the 20 teams for campaigning. "One man, or in some cases two, will visit each of the industrial plants in the hope of securing a number of $5, $10, $15 and $25 subscriptions."

Mayor Simpson has issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, the city of Lima is in the midst of an effort to secure a Y. M. C. A. building, and

Whereas, the Young Men's Christian association is one of the most effective institutions in all progressive cities, giving the young man a chance to realize physically, mentally and morally the ideals of life, making young men clean, strong, energetic, law abiding, and

Whereas, the success of this movement required the thorough co-operation of every person in the city, and

Whereas, 225 representative citizens have undertaken, at a great sacrifice of personal interests, a campaign which has roused public interest,

Now, therefore, I, through the authority vested in me as mayor of Lima, do set aside Wednesday as a day of special effort in behalf of this movement and do recommend that all the people of Lima do observe this day as Y. M. C. A. day and that they assist the efforts of the committees by personal contributions and by favorable presentation of the cause to their friends and neighbors to the end that the securing of a multitude of gifts, large and small, may produce the desired result in securing for Lima this most important building.

SUTTON ESTATE IS NOW IN LITIGATION

That Richard T. Sutton, Amanda township farmer, who on April 4, 1916, was married to Mrs. Grace Black, nurse, of Lima, and who died on April 12, 8 days afterward, would almost continuously complain of the burden of the sickness and illness of his first wife and the expense she was causing him and that by these actions, he caused her such great mental pain and anguish of mind that she was overcome and compelled to listen to the request of Sutton to make her will and convey to him all of her estate, is the claim set forth by Mrs. Ury Daugherty, daughter of Sutton, in her petition filed in court today to set aside the will of Mrs. Amelia Sutton, her mother.

Charles T. Sutton is a son. Sutton's will was filed for probate on April 19. The will bore the date of December 30, 1910.

According to the will of Sutton's first wife, all her real and personal property was given to him.

On account of her weakened physical and mental condition, Mrs. Daugherty asks the will be set aside and declares it was not the last testament of her mother. Mrs. Grace Sutton as the widow, is made a defendant to the suit.

Bell against the Lake Erie and Western Railway company. To fill out the required number of jury men, a special venire was drawn this morning, as follows: L. E. Critch, L. Sears, George Hardesty, Samuel Boose, Henry Mosier, J. J. Hoover, the Rev. C. H. Eckhardt and W. L. Oppenour.

The Allen county grand jury, which during their session and before adjournment today, visited the county jail, the Children's home, the county infirmary and the state hospital, north of the city, filed their report, in connection with the number of indictments returned, this forenoon. In most cases, the report was most commendable. The Children's home was especially given laudable mention.

GOOD OLD CIRCUS BAND.

In the May American Magazine is a story by Henry Wallace Phillips, in which he says:

"You take a circus band; they don't go piking alone—one, two, three—every man with his little note, there, like a gal-darned steam engine. No, sir! The circus band is there to make a joyful noise, and it does it. If one fellow happens to be a trifle late or early with his contribution, nobody looks scornful at him. He's a good feller, just the same, so long as his wind holds out."

PLAN FIREMEN'S FUND.

Members of the entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight in their quarters and complete arrangements for raising $3,000, which is to be used in carrying on the firemen's convention from June 13-16. The work of raising the fund will be done under the direction of Frank E. Harman.

BOY BABY WAITING FOR FOSTER PARENTS

The boy baby which was left on the porch at 554 South West street on Saturday morning, is still at the city hospital. The little one is said to have fully recovered from the exposure to which it was subjected by being placed out in the bracing cold air of the early morning.

It is said there has been numerous inquiries regarding the baby. It is believed that before long it will find a home, where it will be given the care and attention demanded by the usual youngster. The little one is about a month old.

THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY.

COLUMBUS, O., May 8.—State Auditor A. V. Donahay, was not at his office as usual this morning. He telephoned to assistants a ten-pound girl had been left at his home. It was the eleventh visit of the stork to the Donahay residence. There are seven boys and four girls in the family.

There isn't a merchant in this city that will not do the right thing by the public. The people should keep by keeping their money in Lima.

THE BOY WHO PLAYS AFTER DARK

doesn't "line 'em out" over the short stop's head or kick the pitcher's goal, he doesn't throw a fishing pole over his shoulder and go whistling down a country lane to the porch pond and the swimming hole—arc lamps light different games than sunshine. His playfellows aren't the sort with whom you'd like YOUR boys to roam—they know too much that should be foreign to them—the morbid banal phases of life from which you protect YOUR lads as you guard them from PHYSICAL infection. All day long his feet go stumbling over the office, store and factory treadmill. He is a pitiful HUMAN COG in the wheel that is turning his BOYHOOD'S PROMISE into your MANHOOD'S PROFIT. His TODAY belongs to you—don't take his TOMORROW with it. He doesn't know how many dreams are worth dreaming—how many hopes are worth the yearning. His muscles are flabby and his mind is shriveling from disuse. He is STARVED of exercise, books and ethics—all the helpings which the Y. M. C. A. COULD extend him if the Y. M. C. A. could only extend ITSELF. No matter what latent seeds of ability are in him, or what basic physical strength he possesses, he is hopelessly handicapped if he is not taught how to USE and develop the natural resources which he owns.

The Y. M. C. A. isn't as big as the Y. M. C. A.'s usefulness—not one-tenth big enough, NOT ONE-HUNDREDTH BIG ENOUGH, its ambition to extend is as great as its inability to expand. It can't give enough boys a chance because too many men who have had THEIR chance own BAD MEMORIES. How about you? How much can you give for the "boys who play after dark"? A month's clear money may mean a career for some little fellow. Sit down and figure a bit. If you're rich, send in as much as you OUGHT to contribute—if you're not, as much as you can AFFORD to give.

TRINITY CHILDREN PLAN A PROGRAM

The beginners' department of Trinity Methodist church will give an entertainment Tuesday evening in the basement of the church for the benefit of their organization, which is endeavoring to purchase a piano. The children hope to add to funds to pay for this. A small amount will be charged.

Miss Audrey Akerman is drilling the children, about 60 of whom take part. There will be the same rose drill, which will be repeated at the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the church on Wednesday evening.

Six tiny tots, the youngest of which is three years old, will give a play, "The Doll's Hospital." There will be fairy and Japanese dolls and a pantomime, "The Last Rose of Summer."

The little tots will all be in costume. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

FRANCE WILL NOT HURT U. S. TRADE AFTER WAR ENDS

Products Not in Competition With American Goods Expert Says.

He Also Declares Wages Will be High When Peace Comes.

PARIS, May 8.—"The United States need not fear being used by France as a dumping ground for products to be sold at a sacrifice after the war," is the opinion of Monsieur David-Mennet, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Paris and an important man in the French cotton industry.

"French goods," Monsieur David-Mennet observes, "are generally so well made that they must be sold dear. If you have seen French mechanics or artisans at work you have noticed that it is as natural to them to give to their product the precision and tasty finish that characterize our productions as it is for them to go through any of the details of daily life that have become second nature to them. You may have noticed that even the clerks in shops take infinite pains in doing up the most trifling packages; they may have tried your patience, but to them it is only natural to hold on to the package until it responds to a critical idea of what is presentable. It is the same with all workmen in France; articles don't leave their hands until they can take pride in them. When we find it necessary to make things cheaply, we are obliged to import the labor to do it. Such products were never specialized in any branch and what we made with imported labor was never, so far as I know, exported at a loss before the war. I have no reason to believe that it will be done after the war; we shall no doubt have exhausted our stocks and have to begin practically anew in such branches of manufacture.

"For the moment the great manufacturing district of the north is eliminated; every machine that was worth moving has disappeared from the factories and must be replaced after peace is declared. The new installations will require considerable time and in the meantime the industries of the interior will no more than suffice for home needs.

"France will also be exposed to dumping since our customs tariff is specific instead of ad valorem. It will require a new law with you to raise a barrier against it. For us it will not be so important perhaps, because other measures will prevent commercial encroachments after the war by our adversaries. For America, no doubt, the proposed protective legislation is excellent, and it will not be material to France because, as I have already said, France has no trash to dump anywhere. I will qualify that statement to this extent—in our special industries such as hats and other articles of fashion, styles often change suddenly and stocks of goods out of style remain on hand. These are often sold at reduced prices, but I doubt if they are ever offered at less than the cost of the manufacture.

"A certain misapprehension has prevailed as to how the Germans were able to compete with home products in foreign countries. It was not because they could produce cheaper. A number of the German specialties are nearly twice as dear to make in Germany as in England, yet they exported them and competed in prices. This was possible because the profit on goods sold at home was sufficient to enable the sacrifice of surplus production abroad. This custom of German manufacturers followed for years before the war may properly be called an established continual system of 'dumping'; after the war, if they have products to throw upon foreign markets, it will be no change whatever in their system. I do not think, however, that they will have such an accumulation of products of this class as is apprehended. Their industries are largely centered on the manufacture of munitions of war. As for the others, they obtain raw materials with difficulty and must now find considerable difficulty in keeping their forces of workmen up to the point where their production can more than satisfy the home demand.

"The Germans have always had the advantage of a superior intelligence department operating in every country in the world through its emigrated workmen and office employees.

"Wages will probably be higher after the war," Mr. David-Mennet thinks, "and there will be a consequent increase in the cost of manufactured goods, but I don't think the advances will apply to raw materials for the reason that fixed charges and general expenses apply to them in so much slighter measure than to manufactured goods."

The cotton industry, in which M. David-Mennet is particularly interested, he says, has recovered very well from the first conditions of the war, excepting in the case of the few spinning mills established in the invaded regions. Commerce in luxuries has also made great gains, he says, but not so much as commerce in products of current consumption which in spite of the war partly because of it, is about normal.

CHINESE UPRISING IS BEING SUBDUED BY A COMPROMISE

Revolutionists Satisfied by Withdrawal of Monarchy Plan.

Yuan-Shi-Kai's Friends in Close Touch With Rebels.

PEKING, May 8.—Negotiations are being actively carried on for a compromise between the revolutionists and the Peking government with the result that alarm over a general uprising has been somewhat quieted. Communication is very slow between the southern provinces and Peking. However, Yuan Shi-kai's close friends have managed to get in touch with the military governors in the rebellious provinces, and there are evidences that middle ground may be reached in a very short time. It is already reported that Kwangsi province, since it has learned that the monarchy has been definitely cancelled, has announced its abandonment of the independence movement. This action on the part of Kwangsi is denied by many of the leaders of the revolution, who insist it is based on falsified reports. Nevertheless, the opinion is general in Peking that Kwangsi is negotiating for terms and feels it has accomplished its main purpose in forcing Yuan Shi-kai to abandon the monarchy.

General Chen Yi, the military governor of Szechuen, addressed a message to Tsai Ao, the leader of the Yunnan revolt, urging that the revolutionists should cease hostilities pending a discussion of compromise between the north and south. Tsai Ao replied that the chief object of the revolution was to check the abandonment of the republic, but that after Yuan Shi-kai had violated his oath to maintain the republic and denounced the republican form of government as wholly unsuitable to China, it would be impossible for him to rule the country satisfactorily and win the co-operation of a public which distrusts him. Furthermore, Tsai Ao asked what guarantee there is that Yuan Shi-kai will not make another attempt to restore the monarchy after having quieted the revolution which he produced so much sorrow and suffering.

In conclusion Tsai Ao pointed out that the constitution makes presidential succession quite clear. If

Here are the Negroes of the Tenth United States cavalry, who under Colonel W. C. Brown, killed thirty Villistas in the fight at Aguas Calientes.

This photograph shows them cheering on the way to the fight. Beneath is a company of United States troops in their trenches at Casas Grandes, showing how they are prepared for any attack that may come from Carranza troops.

Yuan Shi-kai were to resign as the revolutionists demand. Li Yuan-hung would automatically become president and remain in the presidential chair pending the meeting in the near future of a parliament which would elect a prominent president from the following candidates, each of whom would be acceptable to the nation. General Li Yuan-hung, the vice president; General Tuan Chi-jui, chief of staff; General Feng Kuo-chang, military governor at Nanlung; and Hsu Shih-chang, the secretary of state.

All the revolutionary leaders do not hold as radical views as Tsai Ao. Already a number of prominent revolutionists have shown a disposition to accept Yuan Shi-kai as president with a proper safeguarding of the rights of the public. There are evidences that fighting has been discontinued within many sections of the war zone, and a general armistice is expected in the very near future.

Every effort should be made to prevent the attacks by giving the child a light supper and plenty of fresh air at all times. The child should be warmly clad when out of doors. Especially the feet should be well protected and under no circumstances should the child be allowed to remain with wet or cold feet. Then watch for the first symptoms, hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once and the attack may be warded off. This remedy is a favorite with the mothers of croupy children and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere. mo-wed-fri

ARMIES USE MANY KINDS OF SHOES

Aviators and Gunners Wear High Boots, Infantry Low Ones.

LONDON, May 8.—Over 20,000,000 pairs of army boots and shoes had been made and supplied up to April 1 by British manufacturers to the active forces of Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Serbia, since the beginning of the war. Besides this vast quantity several million pairs had been made for the home defense forces of the British Isles.

This month another order for 3,000,000 pairs was given in England by the Russian government and contracts for Portugal, the latest entrants, and other friends of the western powers are coming in daily.

According to the director of the army clothing department, the resources of the British shoe trade are being employed almost to the utmost capacity, but the products of the factories are at the same time giving general satisfaction.

Shoe manufacturers engaged on the contracts explained to the Associated Press that the official control exercised over the delivered shoes insured full value being given for the money spent by the governments. Nothing but the best leather may be used and the workmanship must be unimpeachable, while vouchers detailing the actual cost of the materials must be kept at each factory in order that the manufacturer may be kept within the bounds of a fair profit on his contracts.

The shoes supplied for the British troops vary in size from No. 5 to No. 12, while many different shapes are provided, according to the service for which they are required. The ordinary infantry laced blucher is naturally the most in demand, but tens of thousands of Wellington high boots for cavalry and artillery also have been called for. The aviators too have a special kind of high boots, and the sailor of the fleet high boots of differing shape, while "brogues", or low marching shoes, are worn by the killed regiments and sandals by some of the Indian troops.

As a general rule there are thirty-six pieces of leather used in the putting together of a regulation infantry laced shoe and to complete its manufacture sixty-eight processes are necessary.

Manufacturers here confess that to the United States belongs the credit, unwillingly it is true, of making it possible for the British trade to meet the great calls on its resources. Just twenty years ago there was an American invasion into the shoe trade of Britain and the competition was at once so successful that British manufacturers were compelled in their own defense to adopt the new American ideas or go out of business altogether. The British shoemakers quickly abandoned their conservative methods introduced American machinery and system and soon virtually drove the American invaders out of the market.

At the present moment the trade is so busily engaged on military work that the private customer has to suffer and the price of shoes for civilians has been advanced at least 30 per cent since hostilities began.

Which one is paid the best? The untrained woman with just an ordinary education or the trained woman with a Commercial schooling. The answer is apparent. The business college woman is in demand—she draws a large salary, her position is more desirable and permanent. A course in stenography, in this school pays an extra big dividend on the investment.

In April we received 62 calls for graduates. The larger number of these positions ranged from $50.00 to $60.00 a month—excellent salaries for beginners. But here is a significant fact that should interest the young people of Lima: 32 of these places went unfilled. Trained students are scarce. Far too many young people are willing to start on their life's work untrained, and consequently, accept a small salary.

Our students succeed because they are trained by business methods. Business men know they are thorough and reliable. Summer sessions now commencing.

THE LAST LAP

With about three-fourths of the $125,000 fund for a new Y. M. C. A. building now pledged, the campaign starts tonight on the final lap. That the desired amount will be realized there seems to be no doubt, but interest should not wane. In fact, the approach of the end should cause increased attention and more liberal donations.

The committee in charge has not left a stone unturned. While there are still many prospective donors to be interviewed, some of those who are able to give are still uncredited with contributions. These must be taken care of and their liberality ascertained, for Lima cannot afford to fail in the project. The building means too much.

There is in this city a father who contemplated sending his son in a year or two to a distant preparatory school instead of to the high school, his reason being that Lima has no reputable place where a young lad may enjoy company of congenial friends without facing temptations. When a solicitor from the Y. M. C. A. campaign committee talked to the father the latter changed his mind at once, giving a generous sum to the association fund. It required but a few minutes to convince him that the new building would provide the needed home in which his son might spend his leisure hours, and that a donation to the project would be a cheaper and better investment than the heavy tuition of the eastern military academy. Thus will facts and figures always batter down fads and fancies.

If every father of a son realizes the importance of the building to the latter's future, and if every father of a daughter knew that the Y. M. C. A. might make a better man of the boy the daughter might some day marry, there would be no need of a campaign week for subscriptions. Let us hope that the solicitors make this sufficiently clear to those they interview, for Lima must have that new building. Without it, what shall Lima boys do for a substitute?

PROSPERITY

The other day a stranger started out to interest merchants in a nearby city in a plan whereby they might increase their business. He failed, and as he was departing from the town he informed his seat-mate that similar misfortune has accompanied him in a score of communities. The excuse which met him everywhere was that the merchants were making money, had no time to invest in a proposition which they did not need and needed their spare moments to keep their stock up to the demands.

Prosperity is with us again. She has been for several years, and the great increases in wages paid for labor show it. Improvements in every city in the nation prove it. Increased impetus in building proves it. High profits in many lines of manufacture, trade and profession prove it.

Cynics and scoffers lay this to the unprecedented demand for nominations, informing us that great factories have dropped their former lines in order to produce arms and food for arms at unparalleled prices. This will not hold water, for the number of plants deriving this profit is too small in comparison to the entire number of manufacturing plants in the country.

Why not give the financial situation a little credit? How about the federal reserve act and the currency measure? Aren't the bumper crops worth mentioning? Isn't it fair to award some of the credit to the fact that this nation, because of peace and plenty, is enjoying the fruits of wise government?

Would we be in the same condition with an impetuous, hot-headed, erratic helmsman at the tiller of the ship of state? Would we enjoy prosperity if a man of poor judgment had tried to frame our financial laws? Could we point to prosperity if we had been dragged into the war, with our men in trenches instead of at counters, benches and plough-handles? If the flower of the manhood of America were handling muskets instead of machines and tools, how long could we claim the blessing of prosperity?

Yes, there are other causes for the wave of contentment which is sweeping the nation, and when they are all added together the munitions boom has little ground for claiming the credit.

WAR GEOGRAPHY

From an eastern university comes the word that a course in war geography is to be installed, with a former resident of the zone of hostilities as professor. That sounds like a reasonable and commendable action.

If a reader of the daily papers is unfamiliar with the "lay of the land" he can never read intelligently. Many there are who study current events with an eye to increasing information for permanent use, and those persons are the ones we respect and admire as "well posted". But why cannot every one do the same thing?

To understand the topography of Mexico will remove false impressions of the Dodd-Pershing punitive expedition into the riotous republic on our southern threshold. There are ill-informed critics of the administration who hold that the trip has been ineffective and poorly managed, and who demand that the United States sweep Mexico from stem to stern. In view of the geographical, topographical and climatic conditions south of the Rio Grande this is absurdly impossible. It cannot be done at present and it has never been done with such military resources as the United States now has at its command. General Winfield Scott and General Zachary Taylor are the only men who have ever done this, and that was under conditions of warfare now too primitive and obsolete to be considered, and both of the heroes of 1846 were better equipped with men and the arms of the time than is the federal army of today.

Or take the European war as another example. There are plenty of men posing as critics and experts who have never been east of Pittsburgh and who have never seen a topographical map of their own volving precinct. They explain in poorly pronounced French and German the meanings of various war moves, claiming to be able to see into the future. Any man with an ounce of brains and a week's study of geography can "show up" the fakirs with a few well-voiced questions. It is being done every day in the year. But it would not hurt any of us to understand the conditions which affect news, for real information is the best means of securing lasting reputations for scholarship.

Among the Republicans attending the "love feast" in Columbus Saturday night we fail to find the names of Dr. Schuyler O. Griffin, Matt Glaser and Ralph W. Tyler. But the chances are that they will attend the polls in August with matured enlightenment.

Henry Ford's presidential candidacy has become big enough to draw a page in The Literary Digest. Grind-minded persons will now argue and state that Henry paid for the advertising.

What ever became of the old-fashioned man who ran for office "to save the party"? Now it seems to be "at the request of many friends".

GOOD EVENING: Not much time left—better give the Y. M. C. A. your contribution before the time is up.

NEW NOTES MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

BRYANT WASHBURN, who at twenty-five is one of the bright stars of the silent drama came within one of being a curate. His uncle, Rev. Dwight L. Moody, and other members of his family urged him strongly to enter the ministry. But he swerved from the theological career because he believed himself better fitted for the stage than the pulpit and because he thought there was just as much chance for a man to be of use to the world in the theatrical profession.

"There isn't so much difference between the intent of the pulpit and the present-day motion picture screen," says Mr. Washburn. "In one the teaching is direct by word of mouth; in the other it is by showing the outcome of a life of evil by a particular example. I believe that the impression left on the mind by a photoplay is far stronger and more lasting than that left by a sermon. And pictures are every day becoming a great force for good."

FAY TINCHER TO STAR IN "THE DOPE FIEND"

"The Dope Fiend" is the title of the first Fine Arts feature in which Fay Tinchier, the well known comedienne, is to star. In this picture Miss Tinchier appears in the part of an artist's model who is a victim of drugs. It is a decidedly new characterization for this actress, but not wholly different from her former work, in that there are a number of comedy situations. Tully Marshall appears as the artist.

Miss Tinchier has just been notified that she has won second place in a popularity contest by an Australian moving picture magazine. The first place was won by Mary Pickford. In view of the fact that Miss Tinchier has been in pictures less than two years, this must be considered as a distinct honor.

SEE CHAPLIN AT WORK FROM A LOFTY PERCH

One of Los Angeles' most dignified citizens, a man whose monthly income is represented in four figures was recently observed perched on top of a high board fence overlooking the yard surrounding the Mutual Chaplin studios.

He admitted that in compliance with a rule established by studio manager Caulfield, he had been barred from the studio during working hours, but was so anxious to see Chaplin that he had climbed to the top of the fence. He had been there nearly two hours when he was spotted.

The new Clara Kimball Young film formation will make a specialty of adapting pictures from novels. Among the authors represented will be R. W. Chambers, David Graham Phillips, Rex Beach, Gouverneur Morris, Hall Caine, Maurice Maeterlinck and Edgar Allan Poe.

A MORNING HEALTH HABIT

Before You Eat Breakfast Flush the Stomach and Bowels With This Water.

Nature intended us to have good digestion, free from constipation and biliousness, but we are inclined to neglect ourselves. We eat constipated, then we get nervous, sometimes dependent, worried, and headache. Without sufficient exercise Nature can't carry off the waste. It sits in the bowels, ferments, and turns to poison, making a home for millions of bacteria. Your stomach and intestines should be flushed and cleansed each day. Not with drugs that irritate and "apply the lash" to organs that are already overworked, but with Tollo Water from Dawson Springs, Kentucky. It will not force or irritate, but flush and really cleanse the walls of the stomach and bowels, leaving them refreshed and clean.

When the blood is pure you sleep well and wake refreshed. If you feel good one day and bad the next, have spells of indigestion or biliousness, you should start tomorrow morning on Tollo Water. It will rid the system of sour bile and toxic poison left from food of the previous day.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Pour out about one-third of a tumbler of Tollo Water then fill it with plain water and drink it before breakfast.

After the first glass you will experience the feeling of cleanliness inside that means clean blood, good digestion and an active liver.

TRAVELETTE BY NIKKAM.

THE ALHAMBRA.

The Alhambra is one of the rare perfect necks where a man and nature have worked together to produce a thing of beauty. In its day it was the chief pride of the Moors who built it, when they were lords of half Spain. They called it "The Pearl of the Occident", a "Jewel set in Emerald", and similar hyperbolic titles without number, being a race who delighted in the careless spilling of language.

Today, having survived many horrible restorations at the hands of its admirers, it still stands as a thing apart, embracing in its red walls more of peace and beauty than any other spot in Spain. The exterior of the park is disappointing to him who comes with great expectations. The cunning Moorish craftsmen understood the value of contrast, and purposely they made those walls dull and featureless, so that the splendors within might burst on the dazzled eye as the full sun dazzles one emerging from a dark cellar.

The effect is not quite as startling as all that, perhaps on account of the restoration. But it is startling enough—an overpowering impression of ornate and artistic magnificence. You pass through the Gate of the Pomegranates, where, tradition says, the old Moorish judges sat to decide their cases, and the triple Alhambra lies before you—the Alhambra that was a palace and a castle and a city within a city. Here is the watch tower whence the last Moorish flag in Spain was hauled down for the last time.

All the halls and court yards keep an Oriental pompous of nomenclature. There is the Place of the Clements which enjoyed no less a privilege than that of supplying the palace with water. Here is the Hall of the Maidens where the wives of the sultan kept their private antatorium. There is the Hall of the Ambassadors, famous as the spot where Christopher Columbus was given a search warrant and started out on the track of new continents.

All these and many others are marvels of intricate carving, of nobly proportioned ornamentation, that cost scores of years and hundreds of lives. Perhaps the best of all is the garden without the "emerald setting" of the jewel, where nightingales sing in the English elms that Wellington planted. Old courts and carvings and gardens harmonize in a perfect whole. It is one of the few places where nightingales must feel comfortably at home.

HEALTH HINTS

DISCOVERY IS TO AID FIGHT ON DIPHTHERIA

A new and useful aid in the fight against diphtheria has been put into the hands of physicians and health officers by the laboratory. It is the result of the studies of Prof. Schick of Vienna, who has devised a test which shows whether a given individual is susceptible to diphtheria.

The results of its use prove that 50 per cent of the new-born, 50 to 60 per cent of children and 30 per cent of the adults are naturally immune from diphtheria.

This throws new light upon the spread of the disease and explains why only certain persons take diphtheria even when exposed to it. This test shows whether a person has sufficient antitoxin in his blood to overcome an infection with diphtheria germs.

Some of the other uses of the Schick test can be summarized as follows:

It will enable the practicing physician to diagnose doubtful membranes of the throat.

It will enable physicians to separate the susceptible from the non-susceptible individuals.

It will enable health officers and physicians to administer antitoxin to only those who actually need it.

It will enable physicians, when diphtheria germs are found in the throat of an apparently well person, to determine whether this person is coming down with the disease or whether he is a "carrier."

SECRETARY LANE SAYS U. S. WASTES BIG WATER ENERGY

He Describes Possibilities in Development of Latent Power.

Sees Enormous Horse Power Operating New Industries.

By FRANKLIN K. LANE,
Secretary of the Interior.
WASHINGTON, May 8.—We are living today in the dawn of an age in which power is the basis for our material progress. The productive abilities of our 100,000,000 people are increased by the use of probably 135,000,000-horse power of mechanical energy, not including the animal power furnished by 30,000,000 horses and mules. Most of the mechanical energy is used in the form of electric current. When applied to industrial uses one electric horse power does the work of ten men without tiring. That is, one electric horse power, continuously operated, does as much work as 30 men working in eight-hour shifts.

Conservation of human labor goes hand in hand with utilization of mechanical energy, and utilization of that form of energy most cheaply and least wastefully developed, accomplishes the maximum in freeing man from muscular toil and increasing his productivity. In the last decade we have harnessed for our utilities and industrial needs something like 6,000,000-horse power of water. This means, in terms of human energy, that streams which before that time flowed to waste, are now doing work equivalent to the labor of 180,000,000 men working eight hours a day. This development alone represents three times the productive capacity of the unaided hand labor of our adult population.

This accomplishment stands for real progress, but, as compared with our possibilities, it is not such progress as we should have obtained. Although we are utilizing today 6,000-000-horse power of water, we are annually, daily neglecting and wasting ten times that amount, largely because of our inapplicable laws, since most of the water powers not in use are under government control, and the present laws do not adequately make provision for their fullest development and use. There is in non-use in the United States enough water power to equal, if harnessed to the wheels of industry, the daily labor of 1,800,000,000 men or 30 times our present adult population.

We are depleting our fuel supply in the manufacturing sections of the east and middle west, while in the far west are mountains of undeveloped raw materials adjacent to unused water powers whose development would mean the establishment of great new industries in new manufacturing centers.

We are robbing our farm lands of fertility and failing to realize the utmost of our agricultural opportunities because of our dependence upon foreign sources of high priced supplies for chemical plant foods for fertilizers, while mountains of phosphate rock, lime and lignite in the west await only the magic touch of atmospheric nitrogen extracted and fixed with the aid of cheap hydro-electricity, to furnish a low priced and plentiful supply of fertilizing elements.

Millions of acres of lands rich in plant foods lie arid and waste in the western country, which can be converted into fertile and productive farms, gardens and orchards merely by pumping into them the waters of the streams flowing through them.

This miracle of making the desert bloom awaits for accomplishment only the laws which will permit capital and enterprise to engage in the harnessing of these streams so that they can pump themselves onto the thirsty soil.

To conserve these vast natural resources is the greatest attainment to which the statesmanship of our day can apply itself.

To be truly prepared for war is to be fully prepared for peace.

This preparedness, in its best sense, involves the fullest use and co-ordination of all natural resources and industrial attainments and activities of the nation. There is no good reason why the United States, with its wealth of resources, its leadership in science and invention and its peerage of labor, brains and democratic ideals, should be dependent upon any other nation or country for any of the things necessary to either the fullest enjoyment of peace or the most complete preparedness for undesired conflict.

More than 40 per cent of the potential water power of the United States lies in the comparatively narrow strip bounded by the Cascade mountains and Sierras in the east, the Pacific ocean in the west, Canada in the north and Mexico in the south. Some of these water powers, now unused, are among the cheapest in the world. Long distance, high voltage transmission has almost annihilated distance in making hydro-electricity available in this great western empire.

Development will open to the west
an industrial era of such possibilities as have been almost undreamed of. The fuels available include nat-

As a by-product, and not an un-

LADS VICTIMS OF DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Columbus Grove Boys Investigate Find With Serious Results.

COLUMBUS GROVE, O., May 8.—

Louis Mapel, nine-year-old son of Postmaster Harry B. Mapel, had nearly 100 small pieces of lead penetrate his body, as the result of the explosion of a dynamite cap on Sunday afternoon in company with Frederick Witteborg, nine year old, and Eugene Gander, of the same age, the boys were playing at the home of Earnest Witteborg, Frederick's father.

They were testing the caps with an electric battery, when the explosion occurred. Several stitches were required to close the wounds of young Mapel. The lead penetrated his clothing and went into his body.

Young Witteborg had his eye injured and his face shattered. There were pieces of the lead in the wall and ceiling of the room in which the children were playing.

Eugene Gander secured the caps
at the former home of Peter Lee, stone quarry operator, who when he moved, left the caps. They were used in the quarry. The children tested them all day Saturday out of doors without an accident.

POETRY.

THERE IS A tendency among persons to scoff not only at poetry, but especially at those persons who take up the writing of poetry as a profession. It becomes no one to scoff at anything, and such a thing as a contempt of poetry is all but acknowledged a contempt for the finer and nobler things of life. Poetry is the highest expression of beauty in words. A poet is a seer, whose prophecies are fulfilled by the man of science. Too often we are afraid of our feelings, of a sentiment, and thinking of it we grow ashamed and try to hide the obvious expressions of our minds. In poetry we can find that same thing we have so often felt, and by reading some beautiful poem we begin to put a different value on our more tender thought. Very few of us deny the beauty of flowers, the melody of music, the wonders of nature, but a big part of us think it more or less a waste of time to sit down and read poetry. But we don't realize what we are missing, just how incomplete our appreciation for all beauty is unless we can enjoy poetry. And to scoff at the man or woman who writes such things is to blaspheme all beauty and nobleness. For no person has the insight, the true beauty of character, the soul of the artist, as has the poet. We owe a great debt of gratitude to the poet, the man of vision, who give us the beauty and goodness of the world in a song.

Betsy Botta, of Botkins, says:
 "There are some women who can't like a real woman because she doesn't belong to them as they have no money and sum and sters."

Cheer Up, DEARS: "There's always more sunshine than rain."

IN THE WOOD.
 Here all is beautiful! The rustling boughs
 Have such a strange, full sound.
 The darkling arms
 Of the great trees move so mysteriously.
 How solemnly they heads sway to and fro!
 Fairy Fantasy
 Sighs through the wood. It murmurs low, and then, Still gently whispering, stirs the tiny leaves.
 Now it goes singing through the
 green wood-grass,

HAMBURGER STEAK.
 A subscriber of the Monitor sends in this recipe for the preparing of Hamburger steak:

The following receipt was planned for a home where one member of the family was very fond of hamburger, while another member did not care for it, as it is most appetizing to all.

One pound of round steak, one onion, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one egg, one quarter cup cracker crumbs, one quarter cup of currants. Put the steak through the meat grinder, also the onion; add the egg well beaten, crumbs, pepper salt and currants. Mix well, form in round flat cakes, sprinkle with flour and saute in plenty of hot butter (about two table spoonfuls of butter).

Serve with a tomato sauce made from two cups of strained tomatoes, one fourth teaspoonful of onion salt, one eighth teaspoonful of pepper and two table spoonfuls of flour. Mix dry ingredients with a little cold water, add to the boiling tomato juice, cook five minutes, and pour around the cakes of hamburger.

Nell Morton Has a Theory as to the Baby's Disappearance.
 "I CAN'T understand it. It seems as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up. We have driven over fifteen miles down this road and called at every house and questioned every one we have met and no one has seen her." Olive was wiping the tears from her eyes as she spoke. The strains of the afternoon had been too much for her, coming as it had after three days of terrible excitement following the mysterious disappearance of the baby.

"The only possible explanation is that she got another chance to ride and so was carried along the road without anyone seeing her." The doctor's cheerful tone of the early afternoon was all gone and a settled despair had taken its place. He realized, however, that he must furnish the courage for himself and Olive, for she was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"Olive, have you any theory as to who the woman could be?" asked Nell in low tones that the doctor on the front seat of the machine might not hear.
 "No; have you?" Olive took the handkerchief from her eyes to look at her friend.
 "I have been wondering if it might not be the first Mrs. Ellison," whispered Nell.
 "Why, she's dead!" exclaimed Olive in a startled whisper.
 "There was no proof of that. She simply disappeared. The theory was that she was drowned, but the stream was dragged and no sign of her was found." Nell glanced in the doctor's direction and put her finger on her lips.

THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS

NOW, as this reads like a real-ly and truly fairy story, I shall have to start it with "Once upon a time" there lived a little girl who was so homely that even her mother's very dearest friends could not look upon her and find any feature that would encourage complimenting, except her big watery eyes. These had a habit of gazing down at the tips of her shoes because so many unkind things had been said about her she was afraid to look up into the smiling, unsympathetic faces for fear that what she would see there would make her more unhappy.
 "What would you like Santa Claus to bring you?" she was asked one day when she was a wee little bit of a girl.
 "A pretty face," was her prompt reply. And the answer must have made them wince, because they were the ones who had taunted her with being the poor little homely girl of the family.
 Then at twelve years of age, so she confessed, she fell in love with her great, big, handsome cousin of thirty, who had come from across the continent on a visit to his home.
 "Oh, what shall I do to be pretty?" she asked one of the little girls of the neighborhood a few years older than she.
 "Mamma says if little girls keep their faces nice and clean they will grow up to be very, very beautiful." She did not hesitate to hear any more, but as fast as her scrawny legs would carry her she covered the distance between the neighbor's house and the sink on the back porch of her own home. And she washed and she washed and she washed—she washed until her face shone like a bright new dishpan and the end of her nose was as red as a cherry. Then she brushed her teeth over and over again, and she brushed her hair, and when that was done she washed and she washed again! She washed until the soap suds burned into her eyes and her ears pounded from the water that had trickled into them.
 "What are you doing?" the handsome cousin asked her as she came up the back stairs. "Your face is as red as a beet. What a homely little young'un you are, aren't you, Molly Jane?"
 No one knew for two hours after where she had disappeared, but she

Women In the East and Boys In the West Are for Preparedness

The upper photograph shows the women who have joined the Chevy Chase, Washington, Camp, which was reviewed by President and Mrs. Wilson the other day. They are learning the part in warfare that women may play. The lower picture shows school boys of San Francisco at a training camp at Mantoloking. Hundreds of boys have been given the rudiments of military life there.

The Youthful Note Prominent In Summer Fashions

Satin and Serge Combinations; Also Figured and Plain Materials.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Perhaps the most noticeable thing about the summer styles is their decided youthfulness; this is both in line and coloring. The straight lined frocks and suits of serge, gabardine, taffeta and faille, lend grace and youth to all types of figure. For instance, a yoked, pleated frock of dark blue serge trimmed with black taffeta may be worn by the large woman or the small one with equally good results. One particularly good model worn by a large woman, at an exhibition recently, was made with a deep shoulder yoke of black taffeta, the serge laid in deep, flat pleats, hanging straight from the yoke. A girdle, consisting of two narrow, stitched straps of the black silk, came well down over the hips, giving a long, slender appearance to a rather heavy figure. A pretty adaptation of the same style of dress is illustrated here in serge for the slender, younger woman.

Blue Serge Frock

Satin is effective with serge; and of course the combination of navy blue serge and black satin is quite as popular this season again as it has been for several seasons past. One sees many smart serge frocks with sleeveless coats of black satin, half skirts of satin, sleeves of satin, and the various other notions favored for the modish combining of two or more contrasting materials. Scarcely a frock appears these days made strictly for one material. It is a fact which makes for economy and becomingness.

Hand Painting on Sport Costumes. The sport costume is another youthful notion. It imparts a delightful feeling of freedom, both of movement and spirit. There is something very becoming and exhilarating about the combinations of vivid colorings in the wide striped, checked and printed novelty fabrics now being used in skirts and suits. The midly-blouse costume is popular with all; one of the new materials being used for middys is an adaptation of the old-fashioned jean. This material wears quite as well as its old-time blue predecessor, is reasonably priced, and a most satisfactory material generally for midly blouse and accompanying skirt. An effective combination for a midly costume is one of the bright awning striped linens or ducks, with blouse of plain white, collared and cuffed in the stripes. One of New York's smart shops is showing a midly blouse which flares smartly over the hips; the idea is novel and attractive in its up-to-dateness, quite in accordance with the season's silhouette.

The hand-painted or stencilled hat has been a fad for some time, its vivid parrots, chameleons, conventionalized flowers and fruits, harmonizing and blending in charmingly with the sport suit of frock. While many of us have misgivings as to the durability of the colors when the sun takes a hand and beats down mercilessly on their gorgeous tones, still the idea is most attractive and becoming, and so easily carried out, that even if the colors do fade they may be quickly, and readily restored; therefore, we may go a step farther and have hand-painted neckwear to match hat, or complete the suit. Georgetown crepe is usually the material chosen for these colors and ties, and now and then one of Chinese crepe or a loosely woven linen. The motif's range in coloring from pale, softly tinted blossoms to gaily plumaged birds and vivid colored flowers and fruits of tropical origin. The notion is not confined to sport suits by any means; many a simple little serge frock has been given its note of chic by the addition of one of these collars or ties. In hats too the idea is toned down and made effective use of in tailored millinery.

There hand-painted belts of suede and antelope skin being shown offering another effective way of introducing a bit of color in a dark linen or serge costume. Some of the most effective ones shown this year are of suede, in the favored soft blues, greens and lavenders, either stencilled with motifs and ornaments, or important novelty has a bead flower applied at the center-back.

and is closed in front with another rose to match.

Another pretty suggestion for the young girl is illustrated here in the effective combination of plain and plaid voile.

Foulards are being used extensively again this year; there is no silk. It seems half as satisfactory for the summer silk frock for afternoons and church. A most attractive dress shown recently, was fashioned of polka-dotted foulard a dark blue dot on a white ground, trimmed with bandings, collars and cuffs of plain dark blue foulard. Foulard wears well, and is soft and cool.

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

Mary Pickford is the star on the Paramount program at the Faurot today. The exquisite little artist appears in "The Eternal Grind", a five-part subject written by William H. Clifford. It is a simple human story of today, and as such will have interest for those on both sides of the line separating the very rich from the very poor. Miss Pickford has a part which she perfectly fits and has the support of a very capable cast. The settings are complete and appropriate.

New Bray cartoons are also on the program. The astute Police Dog is put through some novel and amusing adventures in this clever feature. Last times tonight.

The Motion Picture Board of Trade of America, with the co-operation of the exhibitors, will hold the First National Motion Picture Exposition at Madison Square Garden, New York, opening May 6th and continuing through to May 14th. Manufacturers of films, exhibitors, exchange men, famous screen stars and the general public who support the screen will all be represented, and will all share in making it the most important event in the history of the film industry. The Board of Trade has three objects in view—to show what the film industry has already grown to be; to institute measures to promote its future, and to provide interesting entertainment for all who visit the Exposition.

appearing in an attractive list of new productions. Cleo Madison has the title role in "Virginia", a Rex drama in which this beautiful, popular and accomplished actress is most satisfying to her many admirers. Herbert Rawlinson is seen in a two-part Gold Seal drama, "The Mark of a Gentleman", and Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Betty Compson, inseparable and extremely popular funmakers, are appearing in a new Nestor comedy, "Potts Bungle Again".

ORPHEUM.

Rarely does the opportunity present itself to see such a beautiful love story carried to a happy conclusion as is afforded those who attend the Orpheum theatre tonight, where the Chet Keyes Players are presenting "Silver Threads Among the Gold", founded on the famous song of that name. The play embodies thrills that stir the whole gamut of human emotions. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" has been successfully played in all the larger cities of the country by Mr. Keyes and his players, and it is safe to say the present offering at the Orpheum will prove one of the most popular during their stay in the city.

As an added attraction tonight, after the regular performance "The Country Store" will be offered, which will provide plenty of laughter for all. For the last half of the week, starting with a matinee Thursday afternoon that great New York success "Bought and Paid For" for the first time in Lima at popular prices.

ANOTHER MASTERPIECE AT THE ROYAL TODAY.

Rhea Mitchell, Wm. Stowell and all star American cast will present the masterpiece American production, "Overalls," at the Royal today only at the old price of admission—five cents. This is staged in a railroad construction camp in a clean, primitive atmosphere and picturing the unvarnished life of men who are men, this great American drama is a glorification of "work." The true heartedness of the more uncounted workers in contrast to the underhanded scheming of the polished gentlemen from the east, added to a beautiful love interest make it a drama of unusual strength and importance. This is the story of a young girl who inherits a fortune before becoming of age and an unscrupulous young lawyer has been appointed her guardian. The girl goes out to the construction camp in the west, followed by her guardian, and upon their arrival there, she makes many friends while he makes as many enemies. Matters reach a crisis when the lawyer discharges the popular young foreman and puts in his place one of his type.

The thrilling situations which follow and the eventual righting of all matters form a very pretty feature story.

"DAVID COPPERFIELD" AT THE ROYAL TOMORROW.

The great seven reel condensed version of Charles Dickens' masterpiece, "David Copperfield," will be shown at the Royal tomorrow, for one day only, and the important incidents are related in this filmphoto. This was produced at great cost in England and special care was taken as to detail. The exact locations as described by Dickens have been used in every possible instance. It shows the death of David's father, his visit to Aunt Peggotty at Yarmouth, his meeting of Emily, his return to the "Rookery," his being sent to Salem house, the death of his mother, his escape from the brewery, his attendance at Canterbury, working in Spaulow's law office, his marriage and sudden loss of his wife, his securing of his aunt's wealth with the assistance of Mr. Micaber of what had been stolen by the villainous Uriah Heep, his visit with his friend Steerforth to little Emily's home as well as the closing scenes. This great production will be shown for one day only and will no doubt draw capacity houses.

THE GREAT WHITE SLAVE EXPOSE AT STRAND TODAY.

The great five reel white slave expose, "Alone in New York," will be shown at the Strand today for the last time, it having drawn capacity houses at the Royal yesterday, and having been reserved today for another run. This picture shows the adventures of a girl who was sent

Answers to Correspondents

M. H.—You are quite right—Florence Smalley and Lois Weber are the same person.

T. F.—The little musical composition you sent me sounded very well indeed when played on the piano. I hope the efforts you are making will be well rewarded with success.

R. D. S.—Yes, children have to have experience, as a rule, before they can get moving picture work, just the same as grown people, or else they will have to start as extras when a director needs their type.

Edis M.—I no more advise a girl to dye her hair than I do to bleach it. Naturalness is most becoming to every one at all times.

Ninety Years Old—I want to thank you for your dear, sweet letter. I'm glad if my pictures have given you some enjoyment, and I think you must be very up-to-date to go to the movies so often. I do indeed agree with you that no one is ever too old to learn.

Juanita J.—I think the cream you specify does bleach the skin. I do not know of the actress you mention. Are you sure that is the name she uses on the stage?

WOMEN SHOW APPRECIATION OF MRS. V. HAYES MILLER

One of the women members of the class of Loyal Women of the South Side Church of Christ, composed a poem, which was dedicated to Mrs. Miller, wife of the Rev. V. H. Miller, pastor of the South Side Church of Christ, who did such efficient work among the class while here. It was read at a surprise extended Mrs. Miller by the class.

It was as follows:

Farewell, loved teacher, sister and friend,
Your stay with us has been short
But happy to the end.

We are sorry to lose you,
We will miss you so;
Our kindest thoughts are with you,
Wherever you go.

In your ever busy life
Where'er the time you pass;
Please do not forget our Loyal Women's class.

Many happy hours together
We have spent in times gone by,
Working for Our Master
In that blessed home on high.

All our class work has been a pleasure too;
How could it be otherwise
With a leader so earnest and true?

Always smiling and cheerful
For all, a word most kind,
Her bright, sunny nature
Will be remembered for Auld Lang Syne.

We hope most sincerely
In the near future again;
You may meet with our class
Of Loyal Women.

How much we will miss you,
Our words do not tell,
Once more, Sister Miller,
We say to you, "Farewell."

Cleveland Wins From the Cubs

CHICAGO, May 8.—Cleveland made it four straight from Chicago yesterday, when they came from behind and won the final game of the series 5 to 2. Urban Faber had been pitching airtight ball until the eighth inning, when he weakened. He walked O'Neill, and Roth battered for Coumbe and singled. Grane, also singled and scored O'Neill with the tying run. Turner sent Roth home with the run which put the visitors ahead on his safe drive. Williams replaced Faber and Speaker tripled to right, clinching the game. They made one run in the seventh on a single and Gandil's triple. The locals hit Coumbe frequently, but were unable to bunch their drives. Score:

Cincy Is Loser to St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 8.—St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 1 to 0 in a pitchers' duel between Ames and Toney here yesterday. Toney allowed only two hits but they came together and produced the run that lost him the game.

Ames also was in great form, granting but four hits. He was in danger but once, in the third, when Killifer reached third on Betzel's wild throw over first. Chase, next up, however, was forced to pop to Miller for the third out.

After this the visitors could not get a man past first. St. Louis won in the fourth when Long singled and scored on Miller's double.

Beck was injured in the second when Herzog, trying to steal third, slid into the bag.

THE 50-50 TEAM FOR INDIANAPOLIS

YOU'D smile, too, if during the long, weary, dark and gloomy, and all the other adjectives winter days you have been working underlock and key to finish two race cars; then when spring came and the birds sang and the ice melted off the Indianapolis Speedway track, you took your new mount and found that your wildest flights of fancy had come true. That is why Eddie Rickenbacker, manager of the Prest-O-Lite team of two Maxwell cars is happy. With him and his team mate, Pete Henderson, it is 50-50. The two cars look alike, are built alike, and run alike, and you could fool almost everybody else but Eddie and Pete. They could tell which car was which in their sleep.

They expect to do great things in the Sixth International 300-Mile Sweepstakes Race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30, and the favored few who have seen these rejuvenated Maxwells in practice believe the foreign-built cars, such as the Sunbeam, Peugeot and Fiat, will have all they can do to compete with these Made in U. S. A. cars.

Many new fangled contraptions and mechanical features are to be found on these two cars, but in the main their principles are the same as those created by Ray Harroun some years ago.

drive over the right field fence scored the only run of a pitchers' battle when Kantlehner, of Pittsburgh, won from Lavender, of Chicago, yesterday.

The Cubs got only three hits off the Pittsburgh pitcher and only one of them got to third.

Brilliant fielding by both teams was a feature, Mann starting with a one-handed catch and Zimmerman and Yerkes contributing other good plays.

Of the eight hits by both teams, only two were singles, drives into the crowd which fringed the field accounting for some of the two-base hits.

of a comma or of a word. Technicalities have become a part of the election machinery devised by meddlesome legislators in recent years, and the legal branch of the state administration is far from inclined to us eshort cuts to practicality.

With the entrance of U. M. Shapell into the congressional race, two of the three Allen county candidates involved in the hexagonal melee of 1910 are on the scene. In that campaign Shapell, Cunningham and Welty, of Allen, Cooke, of Auglaize, Charles C. Marshall, of Shelby, and the late A. C. Robeson, of Darke, mixed up in a merry manner. The presence of three candidates from Allen prevented the nomination of any of the trio. Welty led, but the real scrap was between Cooke and Marshall, with the former winner by about 250 votes. This was entirely because of the action of Robeson, who entered to prevent Marshall from carrying Darke. He did that much to swing the fight against Harvey C. Garber. Rumor made Harvey the backer of Marshall, with Cooke an avowedly anti-Garber man, and Robeson entered with the sole intention of keeping Darke from Marshall. That nominated Cooke.

That a repetition of the same thing might arise is not entirely impossible, and Allen county leaders are not hankering for anything like it. Welty has not stated his intentions, but the only thing known about them is that he will not offer his head as a buffer between rival forces in a Cooke-Cunningham fight. Cooke, however, isn't in—thus far, at least. If, however, the race should be entirely between Allen county candidates, the county would have a little circus all to itself. It cannot be said that the rest of the district—save for the "professionals"—cares a rap who gets the $7,500 per. Only the political friends of Cunningham and Cooke are deeply interested in the matter, for business is good and the war is getting much of the attention formerly bestowed on politics. A national campaign overshadows the small fights, and other reasons make it safe to state that unless the elements involved in the 1914 contest are again opposed to one another, the congressional battle will not be the feature of the mid-summer political vaudeville.

Delegates to the progressive national convention from the Fourth district are C. C. Hobart, of Troy, and Carl D. Jones, of Greenville, Dr. J. C. Pence, of this city, and A. L. Combs, of Wapakoneta, as alternates. The grand melee is scheduled for June 7, at Chicago, and can be interpreted as a move to force the nomination of Roosevelt by the republicans. The G. O. P. convention will be in session a few blocks away. Teddy will have his bull moose nomination in his pocket, and can threaten to run again on the third party ticket unless the republicans select him.

In James W. Faulkner's political letter from Columbus, in Sunday's Cincinnati Enquirer, appeared the following:

"Emmett R. Curtin, of Lima, one of the delegates to the national democratic convention from the Fourth congressional district, had a unique celebration this week. It marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of his arrival in Lima. He was one of the numerous members of the rush brigade attracted by the oil boom in the Lima field. When he dropped off the Erie train on the night of May 3, 1891, he had just $1.80 in his pocket. Wednesday night there were 200 of the business and professional men of Lima seated with him in the banquet room of the Lima club to partake of the feast which he spread as their host. In the quarter of a century of his residence in the seat of Allen county fortune has smiled upon him, and he is considered one of the solid financial characters of the community. The democrats over that way hope some day to send him to congress. He will not be a candidate as long as there is a fuss over the nomination. You see, he doesn't have to go to congress and the sting bug of ambition hasn't injected its virus into him. Happy man!"

of the movement to depose General Jimenez, as president of the republic had surrendered the city.

Secretary Daniels said the three destroyers and two companies of marines en route to San Domingo were expected to prevent further trouble.

The state department has advised Minister Russell that General Arina must be eliminated as a candidate for president of the republic.

The office was vacated by Jimenez. Manuel Quezon, Philippine commissioner who has been urging Philippine independence told President Wilson today that he and his followers had abandoned the idea of freedom in the near future and hoped congress would pass the house bill giving a greater share of self-government to the islands but setting no date for independence.

WALL ST. BECOMES CALM AFTER RALLY

NEW YORK, May 8.—Initial prices on the resumption of trading today were substantially lower, the Mexican situation and Germany's renewed activities in France causing some uneasiness. Mexican Petroleum, American Smelting and some of the active munitions and metals registered recessions of one to over three points but these were soon regained under lead of Maxwell Motors and Texas company, for which a general demand was shown. United States Steel was under moderate restraint, together with leading rails, while Erie was heavy. More even conditions prevailed later, shipping shares again becoming prominent.

Stocks pursued a more regular course after the first rally, speculative issues particularly Mexican Petroleum, Maxwells, Crucible Steel and Industrial Alcohol, reacting sharply with shipping shares, while rails became active at 1 to 2 point gains. The advance in this quarter embraced all the trans-continentals, St. Paul, Atchison, New York Central and some of the eastern lines, and was coincident with intimations that Washington had agreed in effect to accept Germany's submarine concessions. Prospects of a favorable winter wheat crop also helped the movement in these shares. Bonds were steady.

WHEAT GOES UP ON CROP REPORTS

CHICAGO, May 8.—Wheat values took a decided upward swing today, influenced by the bullish nature of the Missouri state crop report and by dry weather complaints from the southwest. Opening prices, which ranged from 1½¢ off to ½¢ up, with May at $1.15@1.15½¢, and July at $1.16¢@1.16½¢, were followed by material gains all around.

Corn rose with wheat. Prospects of enlarged receipts, however, brought about a reaction. After opening a shade off to ¼¢ up, and scoring slight general gains, the market underwent a sag to well below Saturday's finish.

Oats were governed by the action of corn. There seemed to be no urgent demand. Speculative call for land strengthened the provision list as a whole. Lower prices on hogs were ignored.

Sales of wheat to go into storage here were succeeded by a general setback in prices. Announcement of the sending of a new note to Germany was made at about the same time. Prices closed unsettled, 4¢ to ½¢ net lower, with May at $1.14¢ and July $1.15¢.

Ideal weather for planting had a bearish effect on corn. The close was nervous at ¼¢ to 1½¢ net decline.

The close was: Wheat, May $1.14¢; July $1.15¢. Corn, May 75¢; July 47¢. Oats, May 47½¢; July 43¢. Pot., July $23.80; September $23.47. Lard, July $13.02; September $13.10. Ribs, July $12.77; September $12.87.

ROTARIANS DISCUSS CINCINNATI PLANS

W. H. Moore and Mack Altschul to Represent Local Club as Delegates.

Plans for the Cincinnati convention of the Rotary clubs of the nation provided the feature of the noonday luncheon of the local branch at the Norval today. W. H. Moore, who has acted as chairman of the Lima Rotarians' convention committee, and Mack Altschul, will represent the local organization as delegates, with N. L. Michael and W. C. Fridley as alternates.

The latter is at work on several forms of entertainment which may be employed by the Lima boosters in the convention. Every city in the country which possesses a branch of Rotary will be on deck with a delegation, and each is expected to provide some amusement for the assembled witnesses.

Arthur Wheatley, of the Lima Locomotive plant, and D. C. Elkins, recently of the Columbus Rotary club but now of the Hughes jewelry store, were elected to membership in the convention. A balance of $72.45 left from the bond issue campaign was voted to the Civic league on motion of Mack Altschul. Dr. A. L. Jones urged the support of Rotarians in the movement to secure playgrounds for the north and south side children. Roy J. Banta and A. B. Rickoff, recently returned from Florida, addressed the gathering on their experiences, and P. A. Kahle was welcomed back from a protracted illness. Other speakers were Ralph Simons, guest of Carl K. Rowlands, Jacob Piper, Clair M. Toland and P. M. Hulsken.

JUVENILE TOURISTS GET HOME SAFELY

Russell Fairburn, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fairburn of 804 South Main street, who started for Chicago Saturday in company with another lad, was returned to this city by juvenile officer George Barrett, yesterday. He was taken to the detention home where he will be held until his trial tomorrow.

According to the story of Fairburn, he, in company with Donald Burnside, 15, caught an Erie freight train with the intention of going to Chicago. Fairburn claims that he decided to return to his home when the train arrived in Spencerville.

Authorities of the latter town notified the Lima police department of the arrest of the boy. The other lad continued on the journey.

TORNADO TIME OPENS IN VALLEY OF MISSISSIPPI

Absolutely Impossible to Predict Coming of Destructive Storms.

FUNNEL CLOUD SIGN

Fury of Tempest Generally Lasts About Five Minutes.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—The tornado season is well under way. The Mississippi Valley is just regaining its equilibrium after a siege of storms that took heavy toll of life and property. The dazed people are now engaged in adjusting insurance claims and rebuilding their dwellings. Yet the next week may bring another destroying gale.

Although the tornado is a familiar occurrence in the Mississippi Valley and the southern states throughout the period from April to September, so swift and dynamic is its approach that it always finds many unprepared. It is the one kind of atmospheric disturbance that it is impossible to predict. The government weather bureau may warn the people that heavy storms are headed in their direction, but the tornado is so largely a matter of local occurrence that the specific indications are usually apparent only a few minutes before it happens. Thunderstorms are frequent in this section of the country, but the tornado accompaniment is only occasional. It is therefore unreasonable to suppose that at the first sign of every thunderstorm the people are going to leave their various occupations and seek seclusion in caves, dugouts or cellars. Yet this would seem to present the only absolute means of safety.

The day on which a tornado occurs is always calm and sultry, the air hot and moist. By the end of the afternoon, usually great quantities of this moist hot air have risen and formed dense clouds. But as this air rises, the gravity of the earth is pulling masses of cool air from the strata above the storm clouds to its surface. This rising and descending of air causes an energetic eddy of air currents forming a whirlwind or a tornado. In the case of the whirlwind, the rotating motion is usually horizontal, while in the case of the tornado it is vertical, taking the form of a funnel-shaped cloud which writhes and twists as it glides along the earth's surface.

The appearance of the funnel cloud is the obvious indication of the tornado. Just before it forms the clouds almost always show an ominous greenish-black tint, moving and whirling about with great rapidity. Then comes the black funnel cloud, somewhat resembling an elephant's trunk, drooping until it touches the earth's surface where it begins the whirling dance that leaves a wide path of destruction.

Five minutes generally marks the period of the tornado's activity, although it may be anywhere from one second to twenty minutes. The funnel-shaped cloud is the personality of the tornado. It has all the sardonic humor, malicious coquettishness and vindictive imagination of a fiend. It drives straw into wood, boards through the trunks of trees, casts dignified boulders weighing over a ton from their ancient resting places, divests fowls of their feathers, and transports various things, including cattle, horses, roofs, steeples, and sometimes men and women, long distances. The air is filled with flying debris. Some things disappear altogether and are never recovered. A year later a man is apt to find his piano in the house of a family living 50 miles away, while his own house is probably adorned with articles which were left in his front yard by the passing tornado.

In the big tornado that struck St. Louis in 1896, it was noted by one newspaper that all the churches had been stricken and all the saloons left untouched. The saloon-keepers, were disposed to attach a prophetic significance to this mysterious distinction but a scientific explanation was also published. Besides its wind velocity, the tornado has an explosive action due to the sudden decrease in barometric pressure. Fourteen or fifteen pounds per square inch is the average barometric pressure. Now when this pressure is suddenly reduced one-half, seven pounds per square inch is added to the interior of buildings, containing air for which there is no rapid means of outlet. Thus the windows of churches and other unventilated places, are pried outward by the power of the heavier air within.

The tornado, which, by the way, is a Spanish word meaning "whirl," is peculiar to the United States, being practically unknown elsewhere except in modified form in a few places where there are frequent and violent thunderstorms. The theory has been advanced that tornadoes occur oftener of late years than they did in the past, but this is unlikely, the difference being that now they are reported and then they were not. Some years, of course, there are fewer than others. On the 19th of February, 1884, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana were devastated by 60 tornadoes or more. This time the funnel-shaped cloud killed 800 people, wounded 2,500, left 15,000 persons homeless, destroyed 10,000 buildings and hundreds of houses, hogs and cattle.

In September of this same year Minnesota and Wisconsin were visited by tornadoes in which six people were killed, seventy-five wounded and four million dollars in property destroyed.

Again in July of 1877, Erceldoune, Pennsylvania, was attacked by a tornado which killed five people, wounded fifty, destroyed sixty buildings and tore up by the roots forty acres of heavy timber. Here pillars decorating buildings were hurled from their places and half-buried in the earth, a cow was tossed over a twenty-foot wall and the surrounding country was strewn with school books, letters, carriage wheels, quilts, blankets etc., while many bushels of grain were snatched from barns and sown extravagantly over many acres.

These instances show that while the Mississippi Valley is supposed to be the home of tornadoes, they occur in the east. Atlantic states also. As a matter of fact, they occur occasionally as far north as New England. Here they became the subject of a poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes in which he describes the erratic flight of shirts and petticoats from the clothesline in the backyard, and, most lamentable of all, his Sunday breeches. They also show that the tornado does not always confine its attack to the period from April to September, but may appear as early as February.

The tornado is still a little explored phenomenon. Few people are inclined to sit down and make deliberate and elaborate notes on the progress or peculiarities of the funnel-shaped cloud while listening to the loud ominous rumble of its approach. Instruments for testing the barometric pressure occasioned by it have at once been shattered. The most accurate details on record have been supplied by terrific spectators who have been able to jot down their memoirs of confused impressions.

SIX SALOONISTS ARRAIGNED.

Six saloon-keepers were arrested last Friday on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor to minors. When arraigned on the charge in the court of Justice Morris, each pleaded not guilty. Their trials were set for the latter part of this week. The defendants are: W. M. Bryan, George A. Coe, Brice W. Blair, Henry Sauer, M. S. Ingelwright and George Guthrie. Bond of $200 was furnished by each of the men for their appearance.
